Summary

I'm a passionate front-end developer specialized in building web-applications with React.js and vanilla JavaScript. I love helping great ideas having their way into the web. I love to solve problems connected to UI and general architecture of web-applications. The reason for this passion is that after a nice work has been done I can play around with the new born app features for an unlimited amount of time which is a very satisfying thing for me. And I'm really focused on getting the work done.

I also have an experience in using web3 libraries of JavaScript like web3.js and ethers.js because crypto sphere is amongst my hobby interests.
